

Seventh art and eighteen rooms
The cinema MK2 is a row of rooms that share form but not content.

Beyond the book area
The médiathèque is a wide open space and a room. reestablishing Reading The building as spontaneous, popular, insurrectionary response to closed and controlled versions of what libraries used to be.

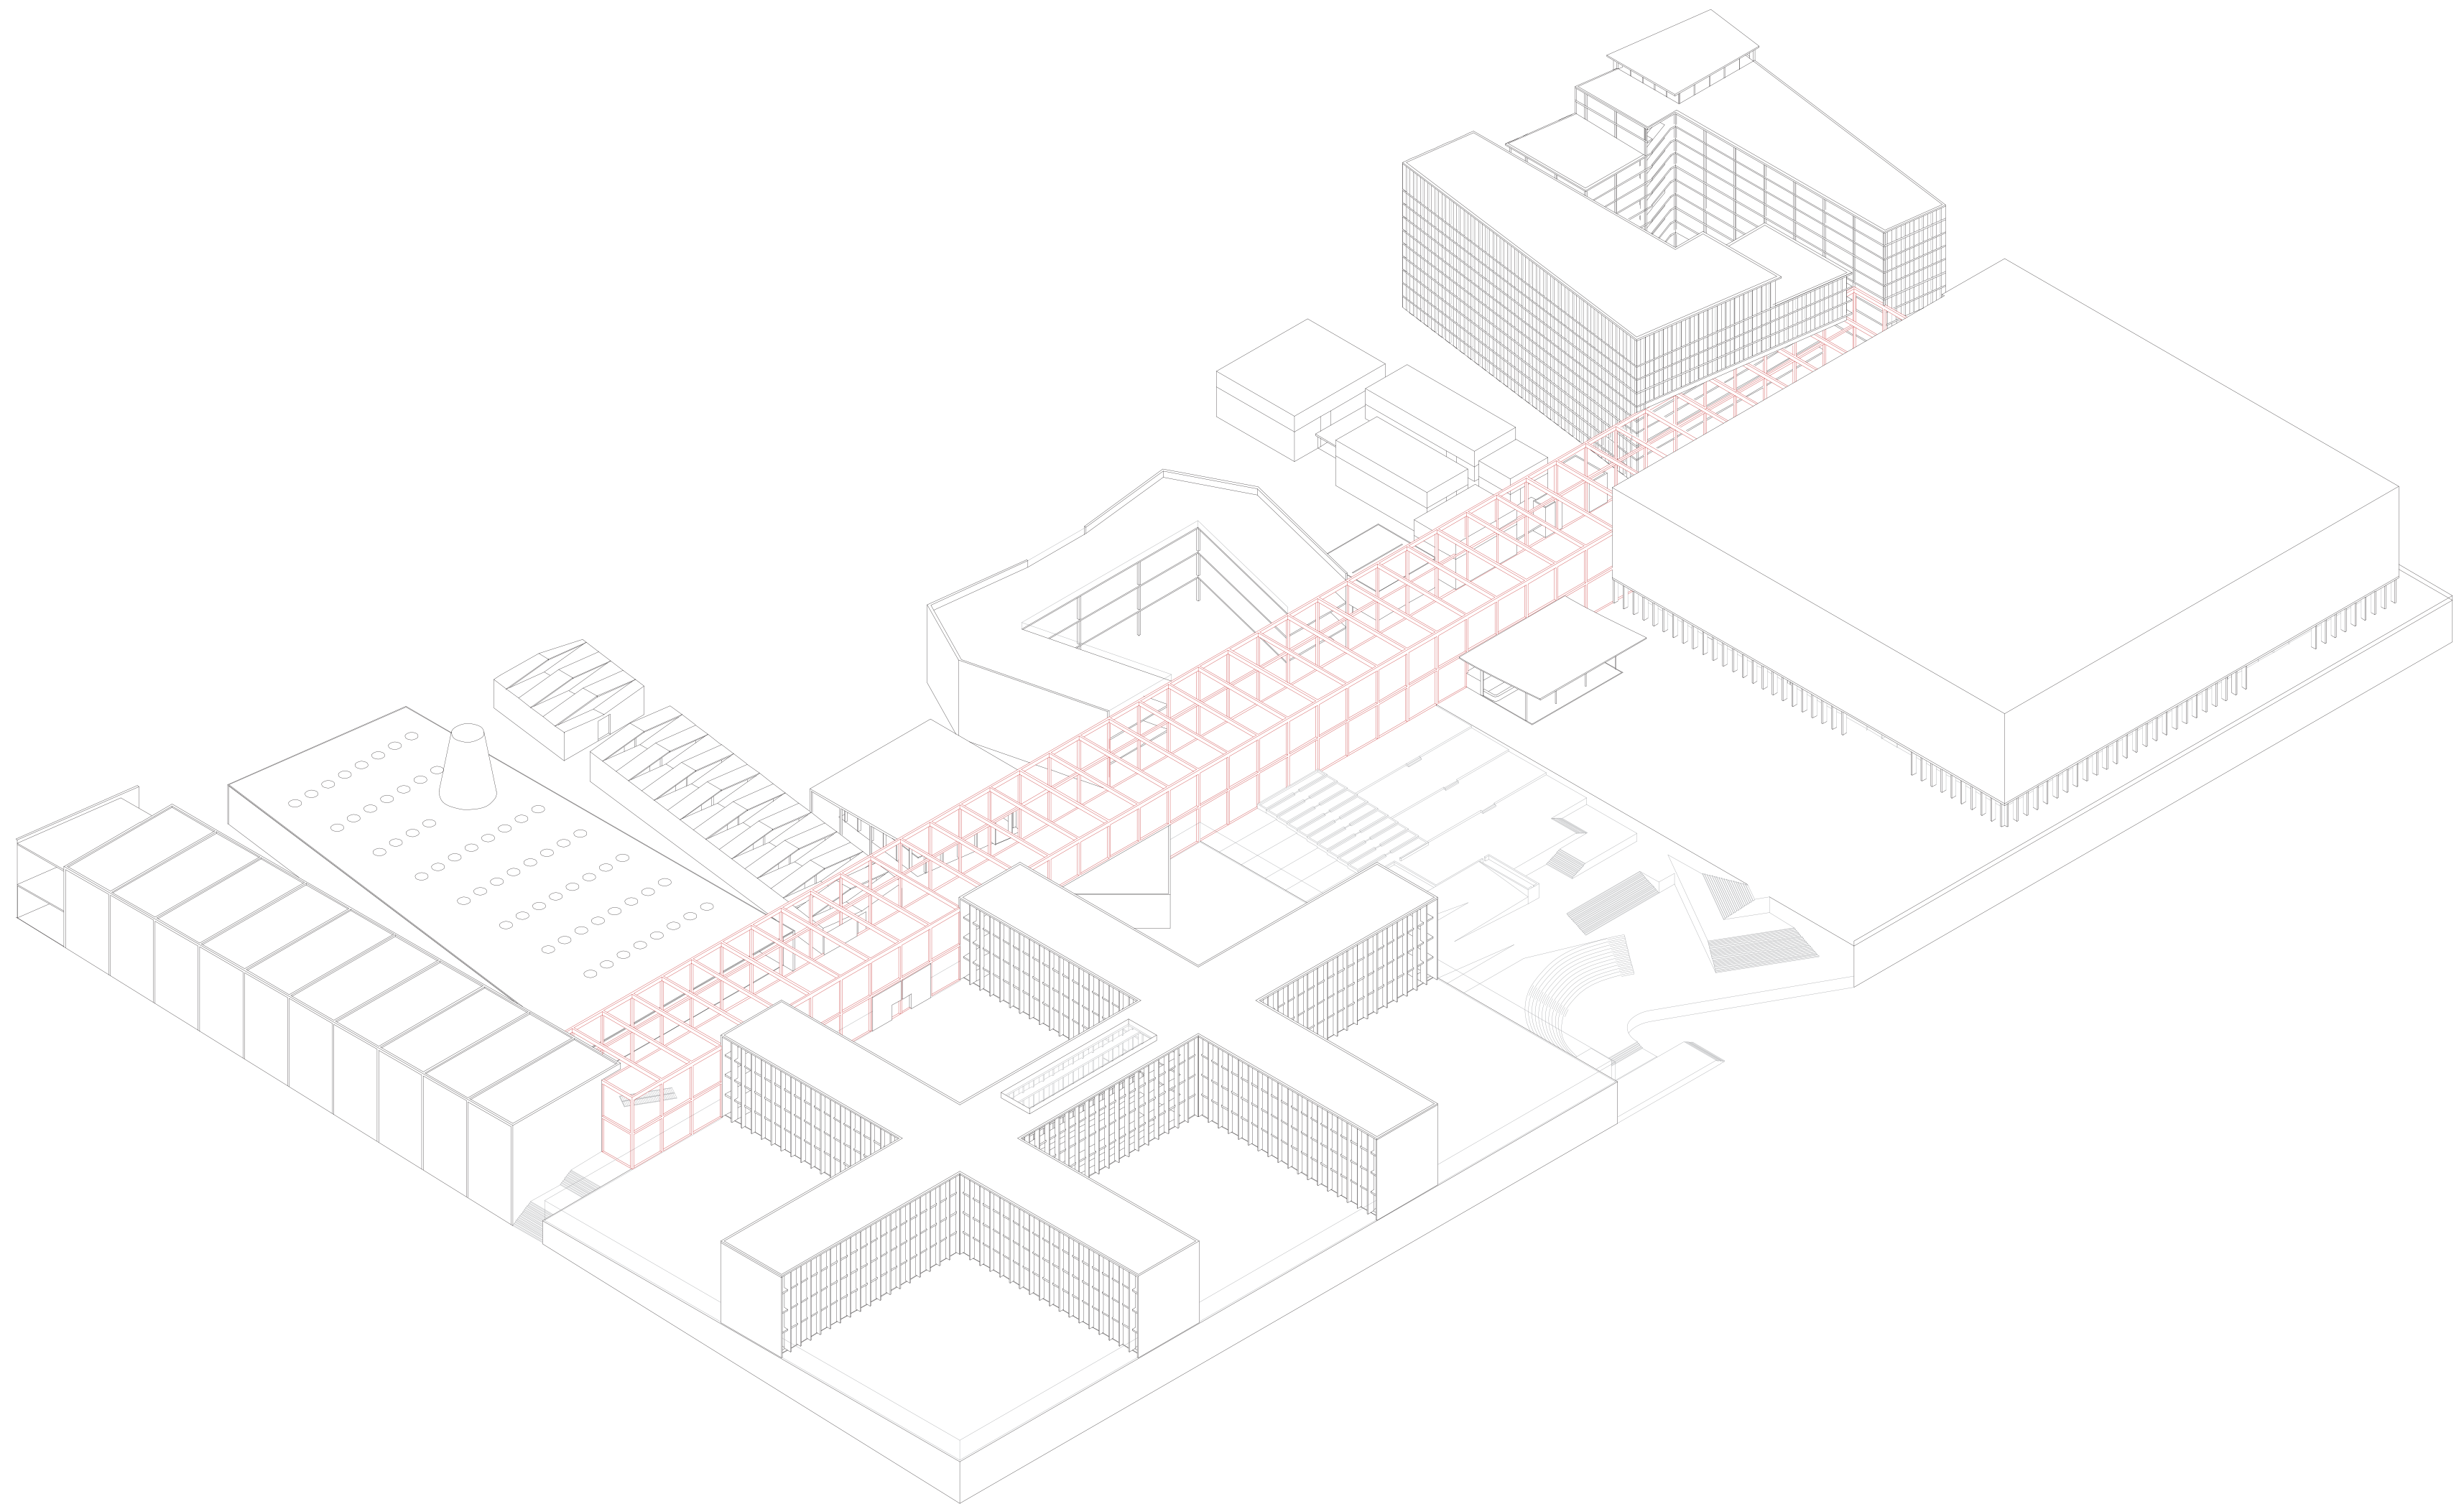

Creative factory
A row of studios and a fab lab rediscover the library as a creation space

Bookless Social Club
The Maker Space provides tools and space, where people gather to share resources and knowledge, work on projects, network, and build.

Forum
The enclosed yet permeable public building offers a space for lectures, events, discussions, film screenings, performances, workshops, research, experiments, presentations, café, gatherings, restrooms, offices and so on.

Musaeum
A simple box received the two globes of Coronelli and the Kirchner Museum received the temporary exhibitions

Both And
The administration building expresses the traditional tension of libraries between communication and conservation

Six-Foot Under
A connection to the Metropolitan and RER.

Neo-cluster
The Research library is a refuge for reflection, meditation and contemplation in shared solitude.

Biblion-thèque
literally, the bookcase, a gigantic and pragmatic socle as a database that contain the DarkArchives, a Cold storage, the museum storage, the forum's stage, a public and a professional parking.

Decomanus Maximus
The Atrium Paradisus partakes of the Parisian's void archipelago, the space mediates between the profane exterior and the sacred interior. This habitat for the flâneur is a third place for Paris that bring together via a set of threshold the ostentatious, communication, public and the fugitive to the serenity, preservation, intimacy and immutable.

Court d'honneur
Following the Parisian typology of big voids anchor at the Seine River, the open space contribute to the city's social fabric, stirring together the pseudo-intellectual bobo form the public library, the gadget nerd coming from the Fab Lab, and the hedonist bodybuilder back from the Paris plage.

Procrastination area
The restaurant, widely open to the River Seine, provides a place to rest the soul and open the mind, as well as good food and beverage.

Civil basilica
The public library is a very big room that offers opportunity to gather large crowds and can handle any evolution of the program. This space radiating volume is the the very expression of a collective idea.